Parents upset over new policy

Parents were angered but little was resolved at a recent school council meeting. The topic of discussion was the new visitor policy at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

Members of school council, school and board representatives, OPP and concerned parents took part in the meeting, which at times became heated, while debating the contentious issue of a new procedure that was implemented this year.

As of September 13, all visitors to the school, including parents, must sign in at the office. Parents of children above Kindergarten level must drop children off at the front doors, instead of walking them to classrooms. Parents of children above grade three must wait in the foyer for their children and the parents of primary students must wait until 3:30 p.m. to pick up their children from class. A earlier rule that children must not be arrive at school prior to 8:30 a.m. continues.

Several points were raised by parents during the meeting, including problems with the terminology of the policy and issues concerning security in and around the school. Parents spoke out on the new policy and many were concerned about the lack of chance for input. The forceful language used in the document, circulated to students and parents on the first day of school, was felt to be offensive and made parents feel unwelcome, they claimed.

Minden Detachment Staff Sergeant Bob Walli, who will sit with school council this year, spoke on the Trespass To Property Act, in which the school board is identified as the occupiers of the school property. "That basically gives them rights to control who is in the school," said Walli.

"I think there may be thoughts out there that there have been some 'incidents' here," said Walli, who felt that parents may believe that the policy was created as result of a single episode. He reported that there are currently no investigations taking place

Despite the weekend's inclement weather, the various studios across The Highlands welcomed large numbers of art enthusiasts. Over 20 studios were open to the public, showcasing stained glass, woodworking, pottery, fine art and many other beautiful items.

Although this past weekend is the focus of the studio tour, most of the artisans will open their doors on Thanksgiving weekend as well. (See page 3 for more photos of the Tour.)

CROSSING THE T'S:

Local elementary school representative Dale McConnell, left, speaks with local President John McClelland, and Provincial President Phyllis Benedict, of the Elementary School Teachers' Federation, at a recent meeting at Wigamog. Teachers discussed their lack of a collective agreement and what action to take if the impasse continues.

Teachers vote on strike position

Elementary School Teachers in the Trillium Lakelands District remain the only group in the province that is without a contract with its school board, and the Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario would like to do something about it.

The last of three meetings in the district, to discuss and vote to approve or refuse the possibility of a strike, was held at the Wigamog Inn on September 30. Other meetings were held in Lindsay and Huntsville earlier in the week. When the school boards of Ontario were amalgamated, all existing collective agreements, were quashed as of August of 1998. Since that time, boards and local federation representatives have worked together to create new agreements that reflect the new borders of the boards and the requirements of teachers. In some areas, there were six or seven different collective agreements to contend with. The Trillium Lakelands area is the last to reach an agreement, despite many meetings between both sides and seven meetings with a provincial conciliator.

"That is unheard of," said Phyllis Benedict, president of the Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario, who was in Haliburton for the meeting.

Although the negotiating process and the meeting are under a press blackout, Benedict stated that the main areas of concern for the teachers were of salary, benefits and working conditions. Benedict was uncertain why the talks in this area had been so time consuming. "A lot of meetings were wasted time," she said. "They (the teachers) seem to be doing a lot of giving." The feeling at the provincial level of the federation is that the board is not backing down on the issues. "They have had an unheard of number of meetings and there was just no movement," said

Benedict.

The meetings were held to update teachers on what the negotiating, or takeover team was working on, as well as to vote on whether to support a strike. A vote would not mean an immediate work action, but rather that a strike could be started 16 days after a "no board report" was issued. The no board report signifies the break down of discussion and can be called by either side.

The results of the votes held at each meeting were opened and counted at the end of last week. Due to press deadlines, the results were not available.

Grand piano is centre of attraction at Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion

Debut performance delights audiences

The newest addition to the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion was officially welcomed this past weekend.

The occasion was the debut performances of the Yamaha Grand Piano and a reading of the A.R. Gurney play Love Letters.

The $50,000 piano rested centre stage in front of the shimmering Northern Lights logo as local pianists Melissa Stephens and Lauren McInnes ably demonstrated its versatility, range and clarity. Playing pieces by Ravel and Dvorák, the two accomplished musicians brought the instrument to life with an excitement and dexterity

The program, in two parts, included the Mother Goose Suite by Maurice Ravel and Slavonic Dances by Antonin Dvorák.

In addition to the sweet sounds of the new piano, members of the Highlands Little Theatre group entertained with a play that captivated the audience. Two readers, seated at desks on opposite sides of the stage, read correspondence exchanged between them. Through the content of the letters, the audience follows the growth of the characters as individuals and the peaks and valleys of their relationship. As often humorous as they were poignant, the letters provided an interesting and touchingly personal insight into the characters.

The play is being read by different actors each evening. Friday's performance featured Debra Dart and Darrell Dobson, and Caryl Moulton and John Miller performed on Saturday.

Melissa Stephens, seated, and Lauren McInnes shared the honour of giving the debut performance of the new grand piano at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion.

Dramatic director Curtis Eastmure, left, reviews the script with actors who participated in the reading of Love Letters. From the right, Shawn Hagerman, Kim Barrett, Debra Dart and Darrell Dobson.

For those who missed the opening, there are two performances planned for Thanksgiving weekend. Melissa Stephens and Lauren McInnes will be featured at the keyboard again with the readers of Love Letters being Heather Scully and Curtis Eastmure Friday, October 8 and Kim Barrett and Shawn Hagerman Saturday, October 9. The performance begins at 8 p.m. Admission, at $20, includes complimentary refreshments during the intermission.

Proceeds from the performances will go toward the purchase of the piano. While its retail price is over $50,000, since the theatre is part of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, the manufacturer provided a substantial discount. A major portion of the approximate $35,000 cost has already been covered by donations received from Heather Alloway, René Benoit, Ron Clark, Len Pizze and the Students Activity Council. The Haliburton Highlands Performing Arts Society hopes to retire a portion of the $10,000 outstanding debt with proceeds from these performances.

Reserve seat tickets are available at Cranberry Cottage in Haliburton, The Storeroom in Minden or at the door on the night of the performance.

Parents and school council debate new rules

that involve the school.

Speaking as a representative of the staff committee which created the procedure, was grade one teacher Pat Brezina. She stated that there were a number of reasons the issue had come up, specifically the number of people entering the school without anyone's knowledge, and the disruption when classes are in progress. "That interrupted a lot of testing in the upper grades, as well as lessons," said Brezina.

She also noted, although many parents had felt slighted by the news rules, that was not the intention. "We really want to make it known that we still want parents to volunteer," said Brezina. "Parents are welcome in the school, but there has to be some structure."

Both Superintendent Dale Robinson and ASES Principal Rosie Kenney discussed how both the school and parents were working toward the same goal of a good education for children. "We recognize that this is a major shift," said Kenney, who noted that since the policy had come into effect, the halls were quiet, there were fewer disruptions, and classes were able to get more done.

Kenney also reported on what was felt to be negative impacts stemming from the new rules, including the anger of some parents, the rush of parents into the school at 3:30 p.m. and the fact that even teachers had accidentally locked themselves out.

After the panel made its presentation, parents made it clear that they were unhappy with the policy. Parent spokesperson Gaye Botticella felt more had to be done to keep strangers, not parents, out of the school. She was concerned about the main entrance of the school, pointing out the staff in the office cannot monitor who is coming in the front door. She also pointed out the policy concerned only the school building, not the parking lot or playground. "What difference does it (the policy) make if someone could get onto the playground?" said Botticella. It was also noted that in a hostage situation, with only one set of doors unlocked, emergency personnel would have difficulty getting into the building.

Lise Keaney asked if the school council had approved the policy, and was told that it had reviewed the first draft but council had not seen it in its entirety. Keaney did not like the, "...heavy handed way in which this was brought about," and felt that by having to deal with the office staff created a communication breakdown between parents and teachers. "I find this whole policy offensive," said Keaney.

One parent stated her disappointment in the fact that, due to this new rule, her high school aged children who board the school bus to Haliburton at Archie Stouffer are no longer allowed to wait inside the school. Rosie Kenney stated that the high school students had no reason to be in the school and in the past some would wander the halls while waiting.

Although many opinions were heard during the meeting, little was actually resolved. Some possible solution were suggested, such as identifying parents with custody issues, and setting up parent interviews at the end of the school day, but no consensus was reached. It was suggested, that a second meeting be held in the next few weeks, including concerned parents and the members of the committee who drafted the new procedures.

Giving thanks

Thanksgiving....some suggest its roots reach back to the arrival of pilgrims on the North American shore more than 500 years ago. Their celebration was held in appreciation of finally reaching their destination safely, although there were probably some who were just happy to finally be off the boat. For many others, the roots of Thanksgiving can be traced back to the time of year when the harvest was complete and nature's bounty was stored away. It is interesting to note that, despite the fact an increasing proportion of the population has long left its agrarian roots far behind, we still say thanks for the fullness of the harvest.

As Canadians we are indeed fortunate to share in an annual harvest that makes this nation the envy of the world. While most of us can quickly rhyme off a list of short-comings which we believe plagues this nation, viewed in the perspective of what others around the world have, there is little or no reason to complain. There are few other places in the world most people would rather be. And in fact, as Canadians we have the ability to change the condition in which we live rather than just endure it.

So as we celebrate another successful harvest, another journey completed, let us not forget those who do not share in the bounty this world can create and give thanks for just how fortunate we really are.

Hats off to the members of the Highlands artistic community who have made our area such an interesting and colourful place in which to live. The annual Studio Tour provides the occasion when the many talents of area residents are most visible. However, we are indeed fortunate to have artists of many disciplines here year round, enriching our community with their talents. We salute the many individuals and groups who add so much to life in the Highlands.

Where are the savings?

Editor:

After reading your Times report "Amalgamation Talks Underway", (September 13) I wonder, why bother?

I quote from page 12 "None of us has superfluous staff," Anthon said. It was noted that the new municipality may actually have to increase staff. "The only thing we have a surplus of is politicians," Rigney said."

I thought the objective of the whole exercise was to save money. If you cut the number of council members from 15 to 7 you still will save less than Minden pays Clayton Cameron. The new staff will cost a bundle. The seven survivors will demand more money.

Jerry Rome said that AHM could not survive without its volunteer committees. I doubt that volunteers will want the added workload of the new huge municipality. I understand things are not going smoothly in eastern and northern Haliburton. When you think of it, a four member county council is a farce. Again I quote from your report. "It was pointed out that the new Act doesn't mention the office of deputy reeve."

County Council will become an oligarchy in reality.

From day one, George Simmons threatened "Commissioner" whenever he opened his mouth. These commissioners now have the gentle title, "facilitator". Maybe God will make them all disappear.

Right now we should bite the bullet and go four municipalities with no County Council, or follow the wishes of you, Ron Buchanan and several other people, and form "The United Townships of Haliburton."

The little civil (?) service nerds crouched over their computers should be very happy.

Emily Township has requested a "facilitator" for Victoria.

Bill Valentine,
Lutterworth.

Hospital appreciated

Editor:

Thank you to our hospital.

On Saturday, September 18 our brother/son William Moyer Hewitt had a heart attack. He was taken to the Minden Hospital and the care he had was unreal. If it wasn't for our little hospital he would not have lived.

Our heart felt thanks to the doctor and nurses who were on duty and the nurse and the ambulance drivers who went with him to Barrie.

We need our hospital more than most people think. If you don't use it you never realize how important it can be in your time of need. Please support our hospital.

Tapping into the power of GIS

Editor:

Over the past few months, County officials have alerted residents to their desire to make use of Geographic Information Systems (GIS) for the implementation of 911. They are to be commended for their willingness to embrace new technology for both the immediate and long-term benefit to the County and its residents.

GIS is a tool of extraordinary power but, by and large, it is unfamiliar to the general public and small businesses. Its easy map-making capability has been documented in other articles appearing in the press this summer. But it serves just as well in performing various types of analysis in which physical location is an important element. Forest resource management is one type of application particularly important for the County but it might just as readily be recreation trail development or septic system monitoring.

The Integrated Database Committee (IDC), reporting to Hub Committee, is a strong proponent of GIS. It is encouraging Hub to use this technology to store and maintain information gathered by the other committees reporting to it. At the same time, IDC seeks to promote the use of the technology in other aspects of community life e.g. health care, real estate, education, recreation, marketing, the news media and so on.

Members of the community - individuals, associations, businesses and institutions alike, are invited to make their interest in (curiosity about) GIS known through direct contact with Fay Martin at 457-5345 ext. 305. The level of response will be evaluated on October 14. If warranted, a meeting will be organized to view GIS in action and to explore the ways and means of making the technology available collectively rather than individually.

Integrated Database Committee
Loon Lake, Haliburton

The name game continues

We have received another suggestion for the name of the proposed amalgamated municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Lutterworth and Snowdon. Lionel Walker of Minden has offered:

• Mindonworth

He notes that the name incorporates pieces from each of the existing three municipal names and suggested that the new municipality could be promoted as having:

- An improved provincial highway (coming soon)
- Spectacular natural beauty

- Clean air
 - The fibre-optic cable
- Lionel goes on to suggest:

Why not relocate your work to your playground?

Township of Mindonworth is certainly worth looking at!!

Do you have an idea for the name of the proposed municipality? If so, why not share with everyone. We welcome unsigned suggestions or, if you want to retain the bragging rights (if your suggestion is used), include your name. Send your suggestions to: Name That Place, Box 97, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0; fax to 705-286-4768; or email editor@mindentimes.on.ca

Behind every tree, under every bed

Just because you're paranoid doesn't mean they aren't out to get you.

Anon

I read a bagful of books over the summer, some of them good and some of them lousy — but the flat out weirdest book I read had to be a tome entitled UFO's, JFK and Elvis.

It is written — weirdly enough by a TV actor, Richard Belzer. You know him? You do if you watch the TV show Homicide: Life In The Street. Belzer plays a sardonic, cadaverous Baltimore detective by the name of Lieutenant Munch. Before his Homicide gig, Belzer was a stand-up comedian — which I have difficulty believing because Belzer scowls and grumbles and looks more like an undertaker than a comic.

As for his book, well the title pretty well says it all. Munch — sorry, Belzer — believes in the Grand Conspiracy — he believes the U.S. government is lying to us about UFOs, that Mafiosi routinely call the shots in the White House, that Lee Harvey Oswald was a patsy and a dupe. Belzer even believes there is a giant sculpture of an alien face carved into the surface of Mars, and that NASA knows all about it.

No conspiracy theory is too far-fetched for Belzer. The Warren Commission? A government cover-up. The U.S. space program? Run by Nazis. The moon? It's hollow — and a space station for aliens.

As for the assassination of Kennedy — Belzer pulls out all the stops on that one. Number one: Lee Harvey Oswald had nothing to do with it. That's why the cops let Jack Ruby get close enough to kill him — to keep Oswald quiet, you see.

Belzer has a theory as to why Kennedy was killed too.

It wasn't because of the botched Cuban invasion.

It wasn't because Moscow ordered it.

It wasn't because the Mafia wanted a more malleable man in the White House.

It was because... JFK knew the real story about Unidentified Flying Objects.

Sure! It turns out (according to Belzer) that Kennedy was secretly briefed by the Pentagon 'way back when he was a senator.

The Pentagon, see, has this huge dossier on UFOs that they've been compiling for decades — only they won't make it public because.....well, just because.

So John Kennedy got whacked by the Powers That Be (Communists? Palestinians? Seventh Day Adventists? — Belzer's coy about this) because he knew too much about flying saucers. And, says Belzer, Marilyn Monroe got killed because JFK might have spilled the beans by way of pillow talk.

The closest Belzer gets to actually naming the people behind this vast web of conspiracy are some guarded comments about — wait for it, now, 'Men In Black'.

There were, says Belzer, several unidentified Men In Black in Dealey Plaza the day Kennedy was shot.

Mysterious Men In Black, he says, frequently show up after any reports of UFOs.

In fact, Belzer tells us, Thomas Jefferson was visited by a Man In Black who may have given him the design for the Great Seal of the United States.

Come to think of it....Richard Belzer always wears dark glasses and a black suit.

And the only review of his book I've seen ran in the National Post — owned by Conrad Black — who has the same first name as the owner of the Hilton chain of hotels —

Which is where Mick Jagger often stays when he's on tour. You know Mick — the guy who had a hit song called Paint It Black?

Jagger also had a romantic rendezvous with the estranged wife of Pierre Trudeau.

Who likes to paddle a canoe — just like the famous pseudo-Indian Grey (almost black) Owl.

Which helps to explain why John Diefenbaker (a known Soviet mole) tried to cover up the LSD mind control experiments that Tommy Douglas conducted in an NDP attempt to overthrow the prairie wheat barons. (You thought all those grain elevators were for storage???? You are naive.) Lawrence's Coffee & Vending Services

The quest for a perfect cup of coffee at the office or in your home is over.

Thanks to a service offered by Nick Lawrence, you can have consistently great coffee day after day, week after week. Nick is the proprietor of Lawrence's Coffee and Vending Services, a company that specializes in providing excellent coffee to institutions, businesses and homes.

There are a number of reasons you will be more than satisfied with the coffee supplied by Nick Lawrence. First, the coffee is ground from only top quality, premium brand beans. This gourmet blend comes from a supplier in Portland, Oregon and, as Nick points out, "We pay a little more for the coffee, but we think the taste will convince you it is worth it."

Second, the coffee is delivered in pre-measured packets. This means that you will get consistently great coffee every time no matter who is making it and without the fuss and mess. And, with regular delivery, you know the coffee you are using is always as fresh as it can be.

Third, in most business and home locations, Nick provides a thermal air pot reservoir. These specially designed pots are amazing insulators. The heat used to brew the coffee is enough to keep it piping hot throughout the day. This means the coffee is not sitting on a burner after it is brewed. This is often where good coffee turns bad, slowly boiling away acquiring that bitter taste. Of course, in high traffic areas like restaurants, where the turn-over is rapid, the traditional coffee pot is more convenient and practical.

In most cases Lawrence's Coffee Services provides the coffee maker and thermal air pots free of charge. There is no need to worry about maintenance, replacement or repairs. That is all covered by the contract when you agree to purchase coffee supplies from Lawrence's Coffee Services.

Responding to the demand, Nick is now making his coffee available for home delivery. You can enjoy the same great coffee available in businesses and restaurants in the comfort of your home. Call today for details.

The company also provides vending machines for commercial and business locations. Choose from snack food machines, cold beverage and coffee machines. (Building on the standard set with his coffee service, Nick points out that the coffee machines brew each cup individually, ensuring freshness and high standards in taste and quality. "We don't use instant coffee like so many of the machines do," he commented.) The machines are installed at no charge to the client and refilled regularly by Nick and his staff.

So, if you are interested in discovering what a good cup of coffee really tastes like, give Nick a call today at 705-286-4032. With 20 years of experience serving Haliburton and Victoria Counties and surrounding area, Lawrence's Coffee and Vending Services is a name you can trust. Call Nick today for more information.

Senior girls field hockey team ties Griffins, defeats Mustangs on home turf

by Ariel White

The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Senior Girls Field Hockey team held its own last week, with a tie and a win in a home tournament. Spectators were treated to games with solid stick handling and a strong defense, which allowed the Haliburton girls to keep the ball in their opponents circle for most of each game.

The Haliburton senior team hosted several teams on September 28. The team began its season on September 21 and hopes to play to the end of October.

Haliburton's first game pitted the Red Hawks against an always strong Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School squad. The Hal High team played hard and ended the game with a score of 1-1.

The Red Hawks kept their spirits and enthusiasm high for the second game against Crestwood. The two teams were well matched, with each having a confident presence on the pitch and strong drives from both squads.

However, Crestwood appeared a bit disjointed through the game, not being able to follow through as well on plays, compared to the well oiled Haliburton machine. The HHSS offence moved well as a unit and managed to keep the ball in the Crestwood end, keeping their goalie busy for most of the game. Although the first few shots on net were unsuccessful, Haliburton's Kim Varty got the scoring started with a strong goal. The Haliburton offense kept the net busy and Crystal Alton scored a second goal, on a net surrounded by Hal High team members.

With the exception of a few high balls, the game stayed on the ground, with several scrimmages, which in most cases, Haliburton won. HHSS kept the game going at a fast pace, which did not agree with the Crestwood team. The team consistently brought the ball out to the sides, away from the Crestwood defense. By the end of the second game, the Haliburton squad had attracted a good crowd, impressed with the girls' effort.

Although Crestwood scored one goal before the game's end, Haliburton proved to be the stronger team. The next game for the senior girls team field hockey team, which is out of town, will be on October 19.

ONE ON ONE: The Haliburton senior girls field hockey team kept the game on the ground with good stick handling and strong rushes for the net. The HHSS team defeated Crestwood in this game 2-1.

Junior Red Hawk football team wins season opener

- submitted -

Nervous about playing in a new league, the Junior Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Red Hawks football team travelled to Peterborough for its first game on Friday, September 24. The Kenner Rams provided the opposition and the Red Hawks showed they were up to the challenge of playing against the bigger schools. The Red Hawks taught the city boys a lesson, beating them 22-6.

Hal High's big tailback Jamie Doan used his size and speed to full advantage, running for 183 yards, two touchdowns and one two-point conversion. Slotback Travis Bain scored his first career touchdown on Hal High's famous "boxcut" play. Mike Guzik, the team's back-up tailback and starting linebacker also found the end zone on a two-point conversion.

The Red Hawk defense played a smart and hard hitting game, with coach Bruce Griffith awarding game stars to Justin Walker, Garrett Pockett, Mark Hamilton and Adam Henry.

The offensive line was the driving force, making things happen. Coach Griff singled out Joel Johnson, Kyle Robinson, Jason Hales, Adam Tomlinson and Alex Judge for their outstanding efforts.

"The big play of the day went to Diago Rico with the block of the century on Doan's 70 yard touchdown," Griffith said.

The first home game of the season for the Junior Red Hawks will be Friday, October 15 at 3:30 p.m.

Seniors battle to tie

After two overtime halves, the Senior Red Hawks battled to 27-27 draw against their Kenner counterparts.

Cody Duda scored three touchdowns and Mike Morissette added one TD.

Defensive stars of the game for the Hal High crew were Graham Schakelaar, Brent Bolger, Steve Newell, Adam Durkin, Nic Cochrane, Jamie Johnson, Ryan White and Nick Kulas.

Outdoors Association reviews year of change

by Jerry Grozelle

The Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association has had some significant developments over the past year. HHOA President Larry Hewitt outlined some of those developments at the annual general meeting September 26 at the Dysart Community Centre.

The property on which the HHOA Hatchery sits has been purchased and a new building has been erected. The fish tanks will be installed and operational in time for a shipment of brook trout in October.

An open house for the new facility is planned for the spring of 2000.

The Association has applied for a grant to develop an education centre at the hatchery site.

Hewitt told the audience that the work done by the HHOA, especially with the hatchery initiative, is not going unnoticed by other interests outside Haliburton County.

"The Kawartha Fisheries Association is very impressed and interested in what we're doing," he said. He added that he expects the HHOA will also be on the receiving end of provincial recognition.

Another major development over the past year is the increased participation of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School students. He noted that the new curriculum requires 40 hours of community service. That opens an excellent opportunity for both the students and the Association. The students will assist with the fin clipping of the Haliburton strain of lake trout which are being raised at the hatchery. Students are scheduled to help with the collection of Haliburton strain lake trout eggs this fall, and they will also be available to help with deer feeding, if necessary, as well as other HHOA conservation projects.

MNR contributes $31,000

The HHOA's cash flow just got better. David Flowers, extension biologist with the Minden office of the Ministry of Natural Resources, presented a cheque for $31,000 to the Association. $25,000 is for operating costs at the hatchery and $6,000 is for the Haliburton Lake Trout Initiative.

Firearms regulations

Peter Shephard, a master firearms instructor and member of the HHOA, explained how the new firearms laws will affect hunters and gun owners when they are fully implemented.

He addressed such subjects as the three classes of firearms (non-restricted, restricted and prohibited), safe storage, a history of regulations, the fee structure and time frame for implementation of various aspects of Bill C-68, among others.

On the subject of storage, Shephard suggested firearms owners should "err on the side of safety." He noted that there are 138 police associations in Ontario and there could be nearly as many interpretations of the confusing laws of Bill C-68.

PARTNERSHIP FUNDING: HHOA Treasurer Avard Edwards and President Larry Hewitt accept a $31,000 cheque from MNR representative David Flowers. The funds are the MNR's contribution to the operation of the HHOA Hatchery ($25,000) and the Haliburton Lake Trout Initiative ($6,000).

"Go the extra step," Shephard advised.

He explained the procedures for obtaining a "possession and acquisition licence" (PAL). The licence requires applicants to pass a competency test. Applicants can either take an accredited course or challenge the test, taking it without the course.

Those who already have all the firearms they need and have no intention of acquiring more, can obtain a "possession only" licence or firearms possession licence (FPO).

Firearms possession licences are also available for minors, aged 12 to 14 who are part of the hunter apprenticeship safety program. Shephard pointed out that young hunters in the 12-14 age range are required to be under the direct supervision of a licensed hunter aged 15 or older who has a valid licence. Only one firearm is allowed between the two when a 12-14 year-old is hunting.

Special award

Earlier this year, David Flowers was presented with a special award by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters for his leadership and support of the Haliburton Lake Trout initiative. Flowers said he would never have received the award if it weren't for all the HHOA volunteers who have helped with the project.

Flowers offered some special recognition of his own. He singled out HHOA President Larry Hewitt and Director/hatchery volunteer John Ball for their dedication. He presented them with MNR hats and made them "honourary MNR employees" for the month of October.

Flowers told the audience that the Haliburton Lake Trout Initiative started about a year and a half ago. He predicted then that the initiative would infuse about a quarter million dollars into the county. His prediction was right on the money.

The initiative has drawn the community together and Flowers is especially pleased at the involvement of the high school students. He commended HHSS teacher Dave Mowat for his insight and dedication to the partnership between the HHOA and the high school.

Flowers said there has been a shift in attitude regarding the way fish and wildlife issues are dealt with in the county. The resource users are taking more of a stewardship role.

Flowers closed by thanking the HHOA and pledging the MNR's continued support.

Education perspective

Dave Mowat told the audience that it has always been a dream to be involved in habitat management. He asked the members of the crowd where they thought they would be in 50 years or 100 years. He didn't need an answer, but he said that some of the kids who are currently in high school may live to be 125 years of age. He was quite proud that his students are thinking 50 or 100 years into the future.

"They are thinking in longer time frames," Mowat said. "They are learning to love, celebrate and care for wildlife. They are learning that it's OK to kill and eat an individual (animal)."

He admitted that some are having a harder time than others embracing the latter concept.

He said that salesmanship will play an important role. Outdoors enthusiasts will have to sell the value of their pursuits to those who don't understand.

Mowat posed a question for HHOA President Larry Hewitt, who, earlier in the meeting lamented the fact that a group is pushing for a buffer zone around Algonquin Park, wherein it would be illegal to shoot wolves. Hewitt encouraged the group to oppose such a buffer zone, citing the fact that the wolves were taking considerably more deer than the protectionists were claiming.

Mowat compared the work the HHOA is doing to save the Haliburton strain of Lake trout, which are considered "glacial relics" to that of the red wolf protectionists, who claim they are special sub-species. Some people think they (red wolves) are glacial relics too.

Mowat said the HHOA trusted the HHSS students a few years ago when the school approached the Association for financial support for Project ELM, a program in which high school students taught elementary school pupils the interrelationship between humans and nature. The youngsters learned that hunting, fishing and trapping are not bad things, as some would have them believe.

Mowat said the ELM Project will be discontinued. Instead, students will focus on working with the HHOA on various projects, including the Haliburton Lake Trout Initiative, other fish culture, wildlife management (such as deer feeding, when necessary) and other wildlife conservation and habitat protection initiatives.

Many of the students are already regular volunteer workers at the hatchery.

"The kids all love (hatchery volunteer) John Ball and (co-ordinator) Dee Wruth," he said.

Some of Mowat's students are involved in a long term forage fish survey in the Kashagawigamog chain of lakes and feeder streams. The study not only focuses on the types and quantity of forage fish. It also has the goal of changing the way people view ecology. Leaving some shore cover along lakeshore property is much more ecologically sound than having a manicured lawn right down to the water's edge.

The economic value of the county's wildlife, including the fishery, is another lesson the students are learning by their involvement in such projects as the forage fish study and the Drag River Rehabilitation project.

"It's important to teach kids that they have ownership in the future of the county," Mowat said. "The resources are very important to the economy."

Mowat pointed out that his students are comfortable with the HHOA. He read from essays some of the students had written. Comments included: "They have a real concern for my education," and "I appreciate the guidance and support."

Mowat said he was pleased that the MNR is supporting youth and he's happy the students are able to assist with the gathering of data that the Ministry no longer has the personnel to devote to such tasks.

Directors elected

The meeting also featured the election of a slate of directors for the next 12 months. All of the current members of the executive stood for re-election and eight new directors were added to the fold, bringing the total to 32 directors.

The executive for the coming year will be selected at the October meeting of the HHOA directors.

4-wheeler draw

The draw for the Honda Traxter was held at the annual general meeting. Dave Mowat and David Flowers assisted with the ticket draw. The winner was Dan Wing of Haliburton.

Fund-Raising Chairman Dan Johnson thanked everyone for supporting the fund-raiser. He especially commended HHOA Director Frank Robertson, who sold the lion's share of the tickets.

Logging Association looks to the future

by Ariel White

Creating a self-sustaining organization was the key topic at the annual general meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Sustainable Forestry Association. Several key resolutions and ideas brought forth by the members included promoting the association, as well as generating a much needed income for the forestry body.

Director Pat Morrison opened the meeting by illustrating many of the association's accomplishments over the past year. These included funding proposals, the HHSFA newsletter, the incorporation of the association, the purchase of insurance, sending members to several lectures and symposiums, both in the county and other areas, and two agreements for wood supply with Domtar Inc. and Freymond Lumber Ltd.

Morrison also noted that the association not only had input, but was invited to attend the interview sessions during the hiring of the new county tree by-law enforcement officer. "They (the interviews) were carried out very professionally by the council," said Morrison, who felt that the applicants were quite impressive. The new officer, Doug Thain, was unable to attend.

Financial woes

Peg Bradford reviewed the financial statement for the organization. "Membership is down slightly but we are hoping to pick that up. It's a great organization to belong to," said Bradford.

She noted that although there had been considerable revenue generated by both the sale of baseball caps and advertising space in the association's newsletters, the HHSFA bottom line shows a deficit of $5655.95. "We're hoping too increase our membership and increase out revenue from advertising," she said.

Strategic Plan

The association approved, in principle, the HHSFA strategic plan. The document was created with the help of a representative of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs. Greg Brown outlined the lengthy procedure involved in creating the document which is an essential tool in writing funding proposals, as well as planning for future growth of the association.

"This represents a lot of work and a lot of hours by the directors of this organization," said Brown. "There are some real benefits to anyone in the logging industry."

The plan outlines several objectives for the future, including membership growth, heightened public awareness, increasing forestry education for members, and marketing the group as a attractive business opportunity to large companies, such as Domtar.

Greg Brown stressed that with the strategic plan in place, the association could begin work on a variety of projects, and that it allowed the group to gain credibility in the eyes of both the public and the government. "We would prefer that we regulate ourselves in practical ways rather than some bureaucratic legislation from Queens Park or big industry. We want to be one step ahead of that," said Brown.

He also noted that with this document, funding could be applied for and hopefully allocated for the employment of a full time, paid director, who could implement and organize a variety of programs and provide a resource library for foresters, students and anyone with an interest in the trade.

After some discussion the draft report was approved in principle by the membership.

By-law approved

The association also approved its operational by-law, after some debate concerning the lack of review by the membership.

The document, which was of considerable length, had only been received from the lawyer's office that afternoon, and could not be reviewed in detail. The by-law was approved but another resolution was also passed, stating that anyone with concerns should submit them in writing to secretary Peg Bradford. If there were enough to warrant it, another general meeting would be called to discuss the issue.

Election of officers

There was little change in this year's directors as many members claimed to be too busy to attend meetings. This year's executive will include Pat Morrison, Barry Boice, Tom Little, Steve Hutchings, Lou Trepanier, Merrill Barry, Greg Brown, Steve Wilkins, Murray Hunter, Greg Kennedy and Joe Billings.

Women's golf tourney a success

- submitted -

The Family Services Women's Golf Tournament in mid-September was a great day for everyone concerned. The 44 golfers who participated in the event agreed it was a huge success.

The weather was beautiful, the Haliburton Highlands Golf Course was in great condition, the dinner at The Moose was excellent and the prizes were terrific.

The event raised $1,100 for children's services at the agency.

Winners for the day included Betty Russell and Sandra Anderson, who captured first place. Julie Moynes and Cindy Henry placed second. Shirley Day and Betty Day were deemed the "most honest golfers."

Suzanne Thivierge had the longest drive on the fourth hole.

Cindy Henry was closest to the pin on the eighth.

Rosie Kennedy won the putt-off.

Family Services thanked everyone who participated and those who donated prizes.

Voting practices on the table at Somerville

The following report is a summary of some of the items discussed at the September 27 regular meeting of the Somerville Municipal Council

Interest in alternative voting methods

Jim Russell, of the Four Mile Lake Association spoke to council about its members interest in alternative voting methods. He suggested phone-in or mail-in voting would be utilized by many seasonal residents, who may not be able to drive to the municipality during the elections. According to Russell, 70 per cent of the people in the Four Mile Association are seasonal residents.

"We recognize that there is a need for council to review the costs," said Russell, who also stated that he and association members would offer any help they could give in researching this type of election.

Reeve Dianne Austin said that council will be discussing this option in the future, as there may be a cost saving in running an election in this manner. "It seems to be the direction of council to take a look at this," said Austin.

Councillor John Byrne noted that he would like to see the matter addressed sometime in the first quarter of 2000, to be resolved before the next municipal election.

Request for donation from Fenelon

A delegation from the Fenelon Falls Recreation complex visited council to discuss a financial contribution from the municipality. George Traill reported that although user fees for the facility basically pay for the operating costs, there were capital projects to be considered. "The problem is keeping the arena up to standard and in good condition," said Traill.

Traill noted that the arena received users from 15 municipalities, in minor hockey, figure skating and men's hockey. A survey was taken of the users to determine what percentage, it was felt, each municipality could contribute. Along with a contribution, each municipality would be allowed a seat on the board of the facility. It was estimated that 12 per cent of the users came from Somerville Township and the delegation asked that the township contribute $4655. "We are asking for a substantial amount of money but we can't operate the facility without it," said Traill.

Reeve Austin noted that this funding had not been budgeted and if the percentage of participants fluctuate from year to year, it would be difficult to plan for.

Councillor John Byrne asked about the possibility of weighting the votes on the board. It was noted that seven of the townships constituted four per cent of the contribution, yet still had an equal vote.

The council will discuss the situation and inform the board of its decision.

- Never leave cigarettes unattended in an ashtray.
- Use safety ashtrays with a double rim and deep centre.
- Keep matches and lighters out of reach of children.

Objection to Gull river waterway

Lake Kashagawigamog Organization President Peter Oyler appealed to Haliburton County Council to pass a resolution which would give "a decent burial" to the Gull River Waterway Proposal.

Oyler told council at the September 22 meeting that the LKO is on record as opposing the proposal.

Oyler said the $20,000 spent on the report by the consulting firm Cumming Cockburn was excellent, but he was concerned that the title "Progress Report I" suggested that there were more reports to come.

"It begs the question, are further dollars going to be spent by either the public and/or private sector on further studies?" he asked.

Oyler questioned the validity of the consultant's claim that failure by a majority of property owners' associations to respond, was an indication of support for the project.

"The mere fact that LKO was one of two respondents to Cumming-Cockburn of several contacted does not mean that the silent majority, who did not respond, are in favour of the project as suggested by the consultants," Oyler said. "It simply means those associations chose not to respond to this issue."

The LKO president agreed that Haliburton County could stand a boost to its economy. He commended both the Chamber of Commerce and county council for their funding partnerships which are aimed at bringing additional economic benefits to the Highlands during non-peak months.

"Haliburton, like the rest of the province, is enjoying a relatively healthy economy," he said. "But we are bursting at the seams in the summer months. Our lakes and our seasonal resorts have all the summer traffic they can handle now. More boats and more tourists are not the answer, through this Gull River Waterway."

Oyler also noted that estimates of capital costs are almost always low. He suggested that the $3.5-million quoted in the report, "in all probability is 70 per cent of the capital costs required for a mega-project such as this."

He based that estimate on the fact that capital infrastructure projects "typically run over budget" and that, to his knowledge, the Ministry of Natural Resources and Ministry of the Environment have made no comment on the proposal. He suggested that both ministries would probably require impact and feasibility studies wherever waterways and wetlands are involved.

Oyler also noted that municipalities not directly affected by the proposed project as well as the County of Haliburton, don't appear to be eager to participate financially. He said he doubts the municipalities, which would be directly affected, would be able to afford the capital investment of between $660,000 and $1.1-million or the projected annual operating deficit of $80,000.

LKO members also expressed a concern about the increase in boat traffic, the threat of zebra mussels and the potential for waste deposit in the local lakes that the proposed project would bring.

"We may bear the rotten fruit of visitor boater's carelessness in our lake chain," Oyler warned.

He agreed with the report when the authors stated "This is a recreational piece of infrastructure. This is not going to reshape the community and infuse millions of dollars into the community."

Minden workers clean up after Floyd

The wrath of Hurricane Floyd may not have done any damage in Haliburton County, but it did leave an impact, at least for a couple of residents.

Two Minden Hydro linemen have recently returned from the United States, after helping turn the lights back on after Hurricane Floyd.

Kim Colliss and Ron Callaghan were the first Minden area Ontario Hydro Services company workers to be sent to the United States. The pair travelled to Sunbury, Pennsylvania and helped repair and install lines in the southern regions of the state. About 180 staff and 80 trucks were sent from Ontario to repair damage in New York and Pennsylvania. Over 350,000 people were left without power in Pennsylvania. "We were wondering what we would be getting into down there," said Colliss, of the long drive to Pennsylvania.

"The people there were very appreciative," said Colliss, who spent several days in Pennsylvania. "We were very well taken care of." Colliss said that each crew was briefed on what to expect from the damage, what voltages the teams would be working with, and was then sent out with a representative who knew the area where they would be working. The damage was generally a result of wind and downed trees, but there was some high water. Colliss said that although there was water, the area he had been working in had received a lot of rain the weekend prior to the hurricane, so the area was somewhat prepared.

HELPING OUR NEIGHBOURS SOUTH OF THE BORDER: Kim Colliss, was one of two Minden Hydro linemen to travel to Pennsylvania to help repair some of the damage caused by Hurricane Floyd. Ron Callaghan was not available for the photo.

Most services have plans in place for Y2K

If disaster strikes on January 1, 2000, Haliburton County health and municipal services should be able to handle the crisis. A recent meeting of representatives of various health, support services and townships discussed the preparations each has taken in the event of a major Y2K emergency.

Haliburton Highlands Health Services organized the meeting, in order to determine, if in planning for the Y2K bug, there was overlap of services.

"We really felt that we needed to hear from others especially in the health sectors. What do you expect of us?" HHHS executive director Foster Loucks asked.

Steve Bazak, a representative of the Durham, Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Council spoke about the council's role in planning for Y2K. The Ministry of Health, concerned about the planning of the health sector, has requested the health councils survey their respective regions and monitor the progress.

"The broader health sector wasn't at the same level of readiness as other agencies," said Bazak. He stated that there were many holes in services between communities and facilities that needed to be connected. There was also a wide range in preparation, with some agencies fully ready for the beginning of the new millennium and others still asking what Y2K was all about. "It makes sense to pre-plan and here we have a golden opportunity to work together," said Bazak.

The discussion moved around the table, with each representative reviewing what was done, what remained to be finished and what challenges may be faced. Foster Loucks reported that the Haliburton Hospital was reasonably prepared, with a large generator, and fuel. "I am pleased to report that we have a generator with fuel that can carry the electrical requirement of the facility," said Loucks. He also reported that the Minden Hospital has an older but functioning generator, although it is uncertain what length of time it can run.

Lynne Johnston, charge nurse at the Haliburton Hospital said that the inventory and remediation had been complete, and there were plans to purchase an additional week's worth of food, water and supplies. "There are possibilities of supply problems," said Johnston, if the power outage lasted long term. Water would not be a problem in Haliburton as the hospital was on a well, with a pump that could be run on a generator. Steve Bazak noted that Haliburton County had a unique advantage over other areas, as there were two sites that could support each other if prob-

Answering the fire calls for 25 years

Ann Barker has been on the phone for 25 years, but with very good reason.

For the last 25 years, Barker has been a volunteer on the Stanhope Fire Department fire phone, which is almost as long as the fire department has been in existence. In 1974, Barker's husband Don joined the department, and shortly after, was asked to keep a phone in the house. "I've seen many types of calls. Now it is just a part of the routine," said Barker, who makes sure to let visitors to the house know the importance of the fire phone.

Up to five phones are used on the emergency line in Stanhope. When an emergency call comes through, the volunteers respond, take down the directions, nature of emergency and any other pertinent information and relay it to the department via pagers. At any given time, there has to be at least one person near the phone. "It's a commitment that you have to make, to ensure someone is there," said Barker. The phone takes a prominent place on the kitchen counter, and sometimes still startles the household when its shrill alert sounds. At the beginning, Barker noted that many of the women on the phone, were either homemakers or worked at home, which meant that there was always someone available. Now many of the women work outside the home, which makes for a bit more work, making sure there is someone available. "The women have always been committed, but the lifestyle has changed," said Barker.

The women who answer the fire phone are also available, in some cases, to provide drinks and food, if a situation means the department is engaged for several hours. They also help with fund raising events for the department. And the firefighters are appreciative of their "front line" workers, as they hold a yearly celebration in their honour.

After 25 years, Barker has become acquainted with many of the roads, nooks and crannies that the fire department and other emergency services must find in an crisis. She said that although in the future it is likely that emergency services will be called through a central dispatch system, for now it is good to have people who at least have a general idea of the geography of the area. "I know eventually central dispatch will come, but it would be nice if it was within the county."

But until that day comes, Ann Barker will continue to pick up the phone when a call comes in. "I don't know how long I will keep the phone. Hopefully as long as they need it," she said.

REACH OUT AND HELP SOMEONE: Ann Barker has been answering one of the Stanhope Fire Department Fire Phones for 25 years now and will help out as long as she can. The phones are run by volunteer women who relay emergency information to the department.

Emergency services on track

Haliburton Extencicare representative Jane Rosenberg reported that the facility had a disaster plan in place for many years. However the current generator could only run emergency lights and a few electrical outlets. A new generator has been ordered but they are waiting on approval from the Ministry of the Environment before it could be installed.

Hyland Crest will have its new generator in place by the end of November, according to administrator Gary McKnight. There are plans in place to drain the pipes, if the water system was to fail. The new generator is expected to be able to run the boilers. As a precaution, local families of residents will be contacted to determine if they have suitable accommodation for the resident if there is a need to evacuate the home. He also noted, if construction goes smoothly, the new section of Hyland Crest, may be able to be used in case of a major need to house non-residents. "If that's ready we will have room for people if they bring their sleeping bags," McKnight said with a smile.

The Haliburton County Association for Community Living has also prepared its residential facility. The residence houses five people, and the organization also monitors other clients in their own homes. Most will rely on friends and family, but there are nine clients, whose needs will have to be addressed.

Other organizations, including Haliburton County Home Support Services, Supportive Housing, the Health Unit and the Access Centre's main concerns are for clients that could be vulnerable in the event of a power loss. They are being asked to check in with neighbours, get a stock of food in their homes, or stay with friends or family. Lists of high risk clients are being prepared. They will be given to various municipalities so that they may be aware of residents in need.

Ambulance services are also preparing for a possible loss of power but are hoping things will be running business as usual. Cell phones and radios will be used to communicate and patients will be triaged as they normally would.

The municipalities of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Stanhope, Monmouth and Snowdon and Laxton, Digby and Longford were represented. All felt they had plans for any potential emergency. In AHM, the emergency plan has been enhanced and includes Lutterworth Township. "We have done something extraordinary for a small community," said Reeve Jeanne Anthon. There will be generators to run the water, sewer and fire department and to be safe, the firemen and their families will celebrate the new year at the fire station. (The Fire Fighters Association usually hosts a popular, public new year's eve dance at the arena. The reeve said the firemen agreed to scale back their plans this year so the members of the department could be ready in case they are needed.)

Stanhope clerk Gerald Bain reported that the municipality had also updated its emergency plan and each department was working on contingency plans.

Monmouth Township has a committee in place, that has been working on the situation and preparing for Y2K. Booklets have been sent with tax bills and contacts have been made with the OPP, Hydro and Bell. The committee is also asking that anyone who plans to heat with wood, if the power fails, to check their chimneys to make sure they are clean and in working order. Both Stanhope and Laxton, Digby and Longford sent out surveys to ratepayers asking if anyone felt they were at risk in the event of an emergency or if they had supplies such as all terrain vehicles, snowmobiles, or generators that could be used. LDL councillor Peter White said that people were very forthcoming.

Snowdon Clerk Ernie Hills said that their survey was not as successful and it was felt people were unconcerned about the potential problems associated with Y2K. Snowdon will be relying on other municipalities for emergency services, as they contract with three townships for fire protection.

Steve Bazak was pleased with the meeting. "You had an excellent start today and I am pleased at what I see," he said. He suggested that the group meet in one month to consolidate their plans.

Covered for another year

"Minou" the cat recieved her rabies protection for another year at the annual vaccination blitz held at the Minden Animal Clinic. The cat, seen here with owner Pat Hannah of Haliburton and Dr. Nina Wojciechowska, was one of hundreds of animals to receive the protective shot at clinics throughout the Highlands this past weekend. Unlike previous years, this weekend's clinic will be the only low cost rabies clinic held this year. The law requires that all pets be vaccinated against rabies.

GRAND CHAIN ALL: The Highlands welcomed over 300 square dancers September 25 when the local club hosted what it hopes will be an annual fall event. Dancers from throughout the province converged on the high school to enjoy a full day of activities including instruction, round and square dancing, and fellowship. The host group, the Haliburton Highlands Twirlers, were enthusiastic with the response to the Fall Splendour Jamboree and hope to make it a yearly event.

Watch for the big top this Thursday

The circus is coming to town.

The Minden Fire Fighters Association is sponsoring a one day visit of the Starr Brothers Circus. The travelling tent circus will be setting up the big top tent on the community fair grounds Thursday, October 7.

The three ring circus will feature a variety of acts including the exciting Ricco family with their performing horses. The circus also includes acrobats, jugglers, aerial performers and, of course, the usual contingent of clowns.

The excitement of the circus starts early in the day when the travelling show arrives in town. The public is invited to the fairgrounds to watch as the giant tent is raised. A team of Belgian horses will be used along with the circus roustabouts to get the tent ready for the show. The tent raising starts at first light and takes several hours to complete.

The circus begins at 7 p.m. with just a single performance on the schedule. Tickets are available at the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal office or at the main gate on the day of the show.

It's always tempting...but It's always tempting to simply jump in the boat and go, but take a moment to ensure your safety. Take along all the safety equipment the law requires. Check the weather forecast before you leave the dock. Tell someone where you are going and when you expect to return. Leave the alcohol on shore.

A message from the concerned apartment of Ontario.

Photog admitted to therapy after Spot the Shot assignment goes awry

We appear to have ended the season with a more than difficult challenge. In fact, after spending three hours rescuing the Spot the Shot photographer, we realized we might have gone a little too far with this one. We paid the helicopter pilot and three mountaineers and then had a look at the pictures.

Our first thought was that no one would ever guess this one, and then, much like when we sent the photographer on this assignment, we threw caution to the wind and asked, would it be fair to our scratched and dented photog to not run the picture? Would the fact that we held them back cloud her rehabilitation program? Who wants to go get another photo for STS? The answers were a resounding No! YES! Nobody! So, we went with our gut instincts knowing our readers would rise to the challenge presented.

As anyone who has had one too many knows, gut instincts are rarely wrong and our readers responded with enthusiasm and clarity. From the final inundation of the season: "This tricky shot is taken by the Gull River in Minden. The gazebo in the background is on the north end of the bridge...This is the trickiest shot you have taken this year." wrote Ruth Sheppard; "How close can you get....you might as well have taken the picture of your front door (note that for next year)...This picture is in complete contrast to your regular shots which are taken at a wide angle to include the beauty of the Highlands. However, you can not fool down to earth viewers looking at the lighter side of life." said Eleanor and Ray Lymer, Haliburton; "I look forward to looking for the shots every summer," Lori Neil, Windsor; "We have spent many enjoyable evenings touring the Highlands looking for the Spot." Kathryn Neil, Ridgetown and Boshkung Lake; "We looked at the picture a zillion times to pinpoint the location and now, due to deadline for entries, our guess is that, it is a picture taken with the lens cap off! ...We look forward to seeing the names in print of those who have good memories and/or enjoy the countryside scanning for answers to Spot the Shot." Brenda Wilcox and Steve Walker, Minden. Well Brenda and Steve, you were right, the lens cap was off, as a matter of fact the lens caps are always off...they were lost years ago.

For the final time this year we cranked up the old Selec-Toe-Matic, fed in all the correct entries for contest # 16 and after many seismic contractions, the automated winner selection system spit out the entry received from Ray and Eleanor Lymer. Congratulations to them and everyone else who figured out the toughest contest of the season.

For the Lymers we have the usual fantastic cash reward, $25, delivered by bonded courier direct to their mail box. We have also made a donation of an equal amount, in their names, to the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation. And, so we arrive at the end of another season and the time has come to say goodbye, to all our companee....S-P-O....T-T-H.....E-S-H-O-T....somehow it just doesn't scan like it once did. Goodbye and thanks to all our STS friends from this past year including, in no particular order: Janet Bond, Ruth and Everett McKnight, Tami and Ruth Sheppard, Kate Pockett, Chris Lynd, Victoria Fraser, Ross and Laurie Burk, Terry Griffin, Sylvia Holland, Lorne Monkman, Ron MacKenzie, Moira Arnot, Ralph Mintz, Ernest Thorn, Paul Perreault, Beatrice Hellewell, L. VOLUNTEERING IS A PIECE OF CAKE: These Canadian Blood Services Volunteers celebrated with donors at Tuesday's blood donor clinic in Haliburton. The clinic gave everyone a chance to celebrate, as Canadian Blood Services commemorated its first anniversary as the nation's blood collection agency, with a huge cake from Rachel's Bakery. Seen here are, from the left, volunteers Eva O'Hara, Rose Conaughan, Teresa Fox, Vince Conaughan and Ed Fox. The clinic collected 111 units of blood from generous Highlanders.

Lakes ending season near average

The following report was issued by the Trent Severn Waterway staff on September 28.

The dry weather was interrupted by a few showers in the past week, but a larger decline resumed in the Haliburton area where the lakes declined to 44.5 per cent. At this level they are only 2.6 per cent lower than the 24 year average and about 5.5 per cent higher than in 1998. Water was drawn from these lakes above minimum most of the week.

The Kawarthas sagged into their respective navigation ranges despite the water from the reserve lakes. Flow leaving these lakes was reduced again to the summer minimum along the Otonabee river.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching is below the rule curve by about four centimetres and lower than last year by about eight centimetres. Only minimum flow is being maintained from the Washago dams that hold this body of water.

Church & Family Go Together

Then one day, desperate and broken, I cried out: "Jesus! Jesus!" I called his name. "Please come into my life and forgive me my sins." And he heard me! It was as though he reached down and took me to himself. That day I experienced the truth of Romans 10:13: "Whoever calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

Repent to Jesus, today!

Anticipation among residents grows as construction continues

Bye bye September and hello October. Another month has passed us by and we are getting closer to moving into our new accommodations. They tell us it won't be long now. We continue to keep an eye on the activity outside noting each major task being done. Today as we write this they are busy paving. In the meantime we keep ourselves busy with the many activities taking place.

At our tea party last week we thoroughly enjoyed the ice cream sundaes that were served. What a treat that was. During the tea party Lois Adamson called in with a fellow member of the Minden Legion and presented Walter Stevens with his 30-year pin. Congratulations Walter!

We were saddened to hear of the death of Edith Day, (Dee Dee) on Thursday, September 23. Our sympathy to her family and friends.

The following morning we enjoyed having Jack and Ruth Worthington with us and in the afternoon the Grandfathers were here. As you can see we had a fun day with the music that was provided. Our thanks to all! There were a few visitors over the weekend. We also were pleased to have the treat wagon around and supply us once again with our goodies.

A small group met on Monday evening for their game of cards. They are hoping that more residents will decide to join in, as they need more players. The following morning during Chapel Service with Father Fellion we had a memorial for Edith Day. Later in the afternoon the Men's Club took place, and that evening we all gathered for a visit from a Joyful Noise. Their gospel singing is so enjoyable. Our thanks to them.

On Wednesday, Edith Russell and Eileen Berry had fun with some baking with Janet. They made brown sugar shortbreads and thimble cookies. Muriel Harrison who was enjoying a visit from a cousin and sitting near the kitchen was lucky to sample the wares. She stated that the cookies were delicious. It just goes to show you that it pays to be in the right place at the right time. That evening we had a great Pub Night. Doris, Don, Lloyd and Don were here to entertain us. Linda and Janet were here and it was good to see family members. A member of the Upton family was invited to join the musicians and Edna McElwain played her spoons. Also spotted were a couple of family members visiting with Edna Scott and enjoying the music. Janet was also celebrating her birthday. So we send our belated birthday greetings to her and Judy, her twin.

Our condolences to the family of Pat Clarke who passed away on Wednesday, September 29th.

It's Thursday again, and we are gathered here trying to make sure we don't forget to tell you some item of news. There are some great aromas coming from the kitchen. This time Peggy Packer and Lillian Harrison along with Marg are baking up a storm (Mexican Mocha balls and butterscotch brownies). Usually if we sit around long enough we get to taste the goodies. Today is our birthday tea and the ladies from Kinmount Catholic Church will be hosting.

Speaking of birthdays, we better tell you about our upcoming birthdays. We have Alice Prentice celebrating on October 5th, Lula Ferrill on the 9th and Laura Upton on the 11th. Lula's birthday is extra special, as she will be celebrating 101 years. We send her our congratulations and best wishes. Happy birthday to all you ladies. Enjoy your special day.

It was good to see Stuart Walkinshaw enjoying the visit of his grandson, recently, who travelled from Victoria, B. C.

Bessie Burke will be attending the wedding of her grandson on Saturday, October 2. We know she is looking forward to it. Have fun Bessie. Also that day there is an open house hosted by Laura Upton's family to help her celebrate her birthday. Another event we will have to report on in our next column.

We send congratulations and best wishes to two of our staff on their recent marriages. Tina Gilbert and Chad Bain were wed on September 18, while Craig Faulkner and Janice were married on September 25.

It's time to send a warm welcome to two new residents. Francis (Frank) Young and Vivian Austin.

Before we sign off, we must remind you of our gigantic moving sale to be held here at Hyland Crest. Mark your calendar for Saturday, October 9 (Thanksgiving weekend) from 8 a.m. - 2 p.m. Please come out and support us. All proceeds will go to the benefit to the residents. Hope to see you there!

Guess that's it. Enjoy those gorgeous fall colours before they're gone. Take care.

The bird was a Ringed-Neck Pheasant, as many of you probably knew by my description in the column last week. Phil Graham came over to tell me, wondering how often he would have to educate me in the future about the identification of birds!! Peter Bennett kindly phoned to tell me. Then Marion Hill walked over delivering an item for the column and said the pheasant was sitting on top of their feeder at that very moment, squawking for food. Dr Bennett thought it might have been a privately owned bird which escaped, but in any case it is making itself at home in our back yards. It is beautiful to see!!

Marion Hill's message was written with her left hand as her right one is in a contraption. In response to everyone's questions and those who are wondering, "No I did not fall off my bicycle. Playing with my 2 year old grandson has proven to be much more hazardous." Best wishes to you Marion and we hope that your hand will be in good working order soon.

The Haliburton County Studio Tour was another whopping success this year. The talent here was again on display and it attracted people from far and wide to take it all in, plus, of course, all the natural splendor at this time of year. The summer sped by so quickly it is shocking to look up and see the trees in full colour or to be taking a ride to an appointment and pass the colour on the roads and see the swatches of colour off into the distance.

I have heard of so many of you who have had the flu and/or cold. Touch wood, it has missed me so far. The illness sounds miserable. Wishing everyone good health in the weeks ahead!!

CARDS OF THANKS

25th Wedding Anniversary.
On Saturday, August 28, there was a surprise 25th Wedding Anniversary for Paul & Margo Sisson (nee Austen). They enjoyed dinner at Mark's Restaurant with the surprise of seeing the room filled with members of both families and some very special friends. We rounded up this very special occasion by going back to the Sisson's home to enjoy cake and refreshments.
Congratulations again "Paul & Margo" and have many more happy years together.

Many thanks to the staff and the palliative care ladies of Hyland Crest who made Vernon's last days there as comfortable as possible. Thanks also to the Gordon Monk Funeral Home for their care and the ladies of the Minden United Church for the lovely lunch. Very much appreciation for the cards, phone calls and visits from friends and neighbours.

Lorena Morrow and family

We would like to thank relatives, friends and neighbours for helping us celebrate our 45th Wedding Anniversary. For all the lovely cards, gifts and flowers.
Also to everyone who helped Steve in anyway with the roast beef dinner, thank you, but most of all for just being there.
